The main goals

The project's main goals are to:

Address the skills gap between higher education and the demands of today's work market

Increase the number of non-business academics

Provide non-business academics with instructional approaches to develop students' entrepreneurial mindsets by empowering them to serve as learning moderators

Develop a critical mass of non-business academics and graduates capable of launching start-ups or spin-offs from their ideas.

Encourage higher education institutions to include entrepreneurship in non-business courses.

Encourage students to think creatively, take initiative, and develop transversal abilities by encouraging them to think creatively, take initiative, and develop transversal skills.

Increase Europe's economic development and competitiveness.

ADVISORY BOARD

Is one of the cornerstones of the project's evaluation strategy.

The representation of end-users and stakeholders in national External Advisory Boards, allows to obtain valuable feedback at all critical stages of the project.

The first meeting has been successfully held with the participation of all country partners, and the experts have provided input on the First Deliverable and the upcoming ones.
